WEDDING

COOPER—SMITH

Baskets of pink gladioli and blue delphinium flanked by tall white tapers graced the altar at a colorful ceremony solomnized in the First Baptist Church of Calgary on July 17 at 7 P.m. when May Beaton, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Smith of the city became the bride of Charles McLean Cooper, elder son of Mr. and Mrs S. C. Cooper, also of Calgary, Rev. Dr. Gordon Jones officiated.

Given in marriage by her father the bride looked charming in a white taffeta gown styled on bouffant lines with lily point sleeves and a decollete bodice with a net yoke edged in dainty folds. The front featured a gathered panel extending to the floor and caught by soft bows. Her flowing veil fell en-train from a matching tiara. gardenias and pink roses made up her bouquet.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Joan Smith and her sisters-in-law Mrs. Alastair Smith and Mrs. Ian Smith. Their floor length gowns were pastel shades of delphinium blue, blush pink and aqua respectively. Each carried a colonial bouquet in colors complimenting their gowns.

The groom was supported by his brother Mr. Thomas Cooper. Mr. Alastair Smith and Mr. William Smith brothers of the bride, acted as ushers.

During the signing of the register, Mr. Ian Smith, brother of the bride, sang "Because".

The bride's mother, who received the guests at a reception held in the Sky Room wore a blue lace gown with matching accessories. Her corsage was of blue cornflower and sweetheart roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother who was gowned in navy mesh edged in white; her corsage of white gardenias.

A three tiered wedding cake and vases of sweet peas centered the bride's table.

Rev. Dr. Gordon Jones proposed the toast to the bride. During the reception Mr. Ian Smith, accompanied by Miss Phyllis Horne, sang several selections.

Following the reception the happy couple left for a honeymoon in the mountains. For travelling the bride chose a three piece dressmaker suit of dusky pink with white accessories. Her corsage was of sweet-heart roses and white bouvardia.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Cooper will reside in Calgary.

Study Formation of Reserve Army Here

In town last Monday afternoon were Lt. Col. T. Thompson and Captain Bob King of the 68 Light Anti-Aircraft Regiment of Artillery. They were checking the possibilities of establishing a troop of one of the batteries here, and were apparently pleased with their impression.

They interviewed several citizens here to check the prospects, and looked also for storage space for the guns until more permanent military accommodation might be secured here. Immediate establishment of a troop formed would include one towed 40 mm Bofors, one self propelled 40 mm Bofors and a 20 mm Hispana. Later, a jeep and other vehicles, together with an additional gun, would be added to the establishment. Colonel Thompson stated.

His present intention, the colonel indicated, is to leave the matter in abeyance for a couple of months, until fall, when conditions are likely to be a little more settled.

At a meeting of potato growers held Monday evening in the District Agriculturist's office, it was decided to form a Potato Grower's Association in Strathmore. A representative turnout of potato growers was present.

Officers elected for the newly formed association are President, Mr. Percy Wright; Vice Pres., Vern Hanson; Sec. Treas., John Scheer; Directors, Frank Ray and Jack Knight.

A discussion was held on the uses of such an association, and the benefits which might be derived from it. It is understood that a root cellar along the CPR track has been mooted, and this group will be quite interested.

OBITUARIES

The death took place July 21st, 1946 of Sarah Elizabeth Wheeler.

She was the daughter of Charles Palmateer and Mary Louise Young Palmateer and was born near Palestine, Illinois, November 10, 1863. Very early in life she joined the Methodist Church and took an active part in church and community affairs, until failing health about fifteen years ago made it impossible.

On November 26th 1885 she was united in marriage to Edward Franklin Wheeler. To this union were born five children who mourn her loss, three daughters, Mrs. Nellie Hanson, Mrs. Mary McBean of Namaka district and Mrs. Bonnie Litz of Swalwell; and two sons Otto and Loy Wheeler of Namaka district. Also left to mourn are thirteen grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren and two sisters in Illinois. Her husband predeceased her in 1929.

Mrs. Wheeler was dearly loved and respected by all in the district where the family pioneered in 1910, and most of them still reside.

Services were held Thursday, July 25th at 2:00 from the United Church Strathmore, Rev. J. H. Garden officiating. Interment in the family plot of the Strathmore Cemetery.

The Pall Bearers were six grandsons Keith Wheeler, Leonard Wheeler, Donald Litz, Edwin Hanson, Vernon Hanson and Myron Hanson.

McInnis and Holloway in charge of arrangements.

W. I. D. Notes

Water users are reminded that in most portions of the W. I. D., the rainfall for the period of April 1st to date, this year, was below normal. Crops and grasses have done well because the rain has fallen in most cases at the best time for good results but there is no reserve of moisture in the ground and hay lands, pastures and trees should be irrigated now, otherwise they may suffer a serious set back.

Water users should also plan to irrigate after the grain crops have been harvested to provide a reserve of moisture in the subsoil for next year's crop. Land being prepared for seeding alfalfa or grass next spring should be irrigated this fall to be sure of satisfactory moisture conditions next spring.

It is pointed out to land owners that all the ditches constructed by the C. P. R. are now owned by the W.I.D. and should not be filled in without the consent of the Board of Trustees. The Board's policy is to not abandon a ditch or give permission to fill it in until an investigation has been made and the Board is sure that it will never be of any further use to the District.

LIONS CLUB MEETING

A hearty dinner greeted the Lions who turned out at their meeting last Thursday night. The attendance was rather smaller than usual, however, due partially to the inroads of the holiday season.

Mr. Morris West was welcomed as a new member.

Constitutional changes were discussed, and the president informed the group present that he would set a date for discussion and voting on the matter in the near future.

A suggestion was made that the picnic, tentatively scheduled for the 31st. of July, be moved to the 14th of August, in order that we not conflict with the Sports Day at Rockyford, sponsored by the Lions. This was agreed to by the membership.

Mr. George Anderson, chairman of the recently concluded Clothing Drive, thanked the Drive committee, together with the Boy Scouts, for their help in carrying on the drive.

The committee set up to arrange for filling the swimming pool, reported on their work to date. Further discussion brought out a recommendation to try to get a transformer installed, and put a motor in operation as quickly as possible.

AIASKA HIGHWAY

Rev. Arthur Hamilton was introduced by Dr. Giffen, as the guest speaker, who stated his topic as dealing with the Alaska Highway.

Mr. Hamilton spoke with first-hand knowledge of many phases of the construction and progress of the highway. His comments were most informative, and interesting to the audience.

He mentioned the excellent road with which they started, later dropping off to a poorer and narrower road in the interests of time and economy. The waste, he mentioned, was as we have all heard, almost appalling. Countless episodes he recalled where all the normal standards were thrown overboard.

Wages, too, he pictured as being out of all proportion to normal practice. Difficulties sometimes encountered because of this were described by Mr. Hamilton as he went along.

Among the other points, he mentioned having run into Mrs. McMurray's cousin in the northland. He was described several times, Mr. Hamilton said, as the best bushman in the country."

THE 'OUT-SIDE'

SHAW HITS 90 MARK

George Bernard Shaw will observe his 90th birthday July 26th as perhaps the most illustrious man of letters living, one of the most youthful of all monogenarians, and an exemplar of that rare quality of seeming to be as contemporary as breathing.

Designed as a mark of homage to "the greatest literary figure of our time," many of Shaw's writing colleagues have published "G.B.S. 90", a book of special essays by more than two dozen British celebrities. A reprint library issued Shaw's "Back to Methuselah" in a comemmorative edition and pre-publication orders totalled more than 50,000, far more than could be supplied.

● "JERK" ARRIVES

Whenever Funk and Wagnalls can get enough paper to print a dictionary, one will be able to look in the J's and find "jerk" defined as an unpopular person. Charles Earle Funk, editor and lexicographer, says: "The word jerk is colorful, descriptive. We're going to use it. Maybe it will offend the pursuits, but we can't help it. We don't make the language."

We have an idea Mr. Funk will have a lot of support from people who use dictionaries for information and do not regard them as compilations of terms accepted by the higher culture alone. Likely Mr. Funk will suggest the slangy origin of the word. After all, why shouldn't the jerk crash the dictionary? He crashes everything else.

●PRACTISE WHAT THEY PREACH

Three hundred optometrists agreed at conventions sessions here to bequeath their eyes to "eye banks" so that their careers of vision improvement would continue after death.

Plant Breeders Triumph Again

NO longer will farmers be obliged to plow under mildew-infected crops of barley when seed of the new hybrid created at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, becomes available. Here, one of the Cereal Division plant breeders examines the new hybrid, highly resistant to mildew. In the foreground are pots of the mildew susceptible variety, OAC 21, on which mildew spores are propagated for testing on 700 barley varieties from all parts of the world. From these, Cereal Division Scientists selected the only two which were resistant and used them as parents of the hybrid in their latest successful effort to benefit growers. This is the same Division whose development of Marquis wheat and other cereals has meant millions of dollars to farmers.

How Housewife Aids the Farm

Even the busiest housewife helps this Dominion Department of Agriculture economist in a food consumption survey. Compiling results from hundreds of these interviews the Department gives farm marketing groups accurate information on the kinds and grades of produce which consumers prefer. Department economists conduct numerous surveys at the request of organized farmers, the food industry and provincial governments.

FARMING NEWS

SHELTERBELT FOR THE FARM

Every prairie home owner wants a shelterbelt around his home grounds but there are still many farmers who have not yet provided themselves with one. Perhaps the chief reason for this neglect is that a shelterbelt must be planned for and the land well prepared in advance of the planting. Then too farmers are busy seeding at the time when planting should be done.

It is not too late in the season when a start could be made in preparing the soil, says E. C. Hallman, Supervisor of the Farmstead Planning Service but do not make the common mistake in planting most of the trees in front of the house, or too close to the buildings or surrounding too small an area. Plan carefully the location of your proposed shelterbelt and plant it no nearer than 100 feet from any of the farm buildings. The north and west sides of the farmstead should be protected against the cold winds of winter with a heavier and broader strip of trees than is required on the south and east sides. In preparing the land, therefore, plow a strip of at least 60 feet wide along the north and west sides while 30 feet wide would be sufficient for the south and east. Summerfallow these strips for a full season or two until all grass and weeds are destroyed and the soil becomes fine and friable with plenty of moisture conserved before planting.

Write for free circular (Publication No. 514 on "Preparing the Soil for Tree Planting"), and place your order for seedling trees with the Dominion Forest Nursery Station, Indian Head, Saskatchewan, a year before you are ready to plant. A limited number of free seedling trees are also obtainable from the Forestry Branch of the Alberta Department of Lands and Mines, Edmonton. For more detailed information on "Farmstead Planning and Beautifying the Home Grounds", write for Bulletin No. 9, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

FORCED MOULTING OF THE LAYING FLOCK

Many poultrymen wish to carry over the best of their present laying birds for another year's production and are enquiring as to the best means of putting the flock into a forced moult so that they will come back into production sufficiently early to enjoy the best egg markets. It should be kept in mind that it takes from two and a half to three months for birds to complete the moult and to be back into production and, therefore, if it is wished to have the birds well into the lay by the end of September, no time should be lost in moulting them.

The procedure is very simple. The flock should be culled so that only the most desireable birds are being kept over. A clean range shelter should be provided on good clean pasture. The birds to be kept over should be moved to the range shelter and receive nothing but pasture and plenty of fresh water for four to seven days. Then they should receive whole oats at 1lb with oyster shell and grit, pasture and water, until fairly well through the moult. When the moult is nearing completion, laying mash should be placed before the birds and, if necessary, they can be given a little additional mixed scratch grains to build up body weight.

When the birds are just about through the moult and ready to come back into production they should be removed into the laying quarters and fed and managed in the regular manner for a laying flock.

Yearling birds will lay three to four dozen less eggs per bird on the average than will pullets, but this is offset by the fact that it is cheaper to moult a bird than to buy a pullet and rear it, and you do not have to go through the stage of Peewee, A Pullet and A Medium eggs that you have to do with pullets.

CUTWORM FORECAST FOR 1947

Many fields in Alberta and Saskatchewan suffered from pale western cutworm infestation this spring. Damage was severe and reseeding necessary in several areas including Hilda, Leader, Mantario and Empress.

A cutworm forecast for 1947, prepard by Howard McDonald and L. A. Jacobson, of the Dominion Entomological Laboratories at Saskatoon and Lethbridge, indicates that more damage can be expected during the 1947 season. This is based on cutworm surveys and rainfall recorded during May and June.

Summerfallow operations for the remainder of this season should be planned to prevent cutworm infestations. To accomplish this, all weed growth should be destroyed late in July and the fields then left undisturbed throughout August and the first half of September, when the moths are laying eggs. Cutworm moths will not lay their eggs in fields that are free of weeds and crusted from rains. Disturbance of the cruct by livestock may be as serious as if the field had been worked.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

On Sunday the Christian Science churches will have a Lesson-Sermon on "Truth." This theme will be presented in passages such as these; "Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright; for the end of that man is peace." Psalms 37:37). "The spiritual sense is assimilated only as we are honest, unselfish, loving and meek." (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 272).

REFILL SWIMMING POOL

The Swimming Pool was emptied and refilled last week, and while, it was expected that this operation might prove difficult, the group who conducted operations ran into considerably more difficulty than they had expected.

The sweep of water from the irrigation ditch, which was rather low, caused a great deal of dirt to be drawn up and this plugged the pump. After this was cleaned out, the pump was driven more slowly, but the the belt broke . . . . . repeatedly.

It was refilled by using a tractor on the pump; plans are under considera_tion to instal a permanent motor, but so far this has not materialized. Eddie Vermunt, Pool Supervisor, and Jack Risdon conducted the operation.

Wins Recognition

SCIENTIST HAS WON RECOGNITION FOR HIS CONTRIBUTIONS

It is perhaps a tribute to the genius of the prehistoric agriculturist that modern man has not added a single important plant to the list of those domesticated by his early ancestors. The domestication of plants changed the whole course of human evolution, said Dr. W. F. Hanna, Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology, Winnipeg, in an address on "Scientific Research and the Seed Grower" at the recent banquet given by the Manitoba Pool Elevators to members of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, at their 12nd annual meeting at Winnipeg.

In his address, Dr. Hanna traced this evolution on an international scale, with particular reference to Canadian agriculture in its increase of varieties of crops; in its triumph over the rust problem; and in the efforts to tackle what had yet to be accomplished by the seed grower and the scientist in creating smut, root rot, and drought resistance in Canadian crops.

The work of the seed grower and the scientist were in a very real sense complementary, said Dr. Hanna. Complete co-operation was necessary to achieve the objective striven for— to improve the quality and productivity of Canada's agricultural crops. The seed grower took the product of the scientist, increased it, very often improved it by selection, guarded its quality and purity, and made it available to the farmer.

Dr. Hanna xplained that the days are gone when the public seemed to regard the scientist or the expert as he was sometimes called, a strange individual with baggy trousers and a beard who occasionally emerged from the solitude of his laboratory to announce the discovery of a new bug or fungus, or a new chemical compound, all of which seemed of very little practical value. "Of what use is it?", the question was often asked.

Then the war came and the pre-war discoveries of the atomic physicists made possible the atomic bomb, Penicillin, the new "wonder drug", saved thousands of lives; DDT, discovered 72 years ago at the University of Strasbourg, is now being manufactured in the United States at the rate of about 3,000,000 pounds per month and probably saved the world from epidemics of typhus, bbbonic plague, and other insect-transmitted diseases; Radar enabled Britain's fighter planes to seek out and destroy the Luftwaffe in 1940 and to detect Nazi submarines through the fog banks of the Atlantic.

Overnight almost, science became of tremendous importance in winning the war, and people recognized that it would be equally important in winning the peace. The question of "What use is it?" was no longer appropriate. The future development of Canada's great heritage in natural resources is clearly dependent on scientific research.

FARM SAFETY WEEK

The week, July 21st to 27th has been proclaimed Alberta Farm Safety Week by His Honour the Lieutenant Governor. This proclamation gave official recognition to the seriousness of the farm accident situation in Alberta. Realizing that the skill and labour of the farmers of Alberta are vital factors in the production of food required to assist in feeding the nations of the world it is obvious that anything that might be done to preserve the safety of our farm people should be implemented.

All too often we read in the daily newspapers in which some person is either killed or seriously injured. Upon analysing the details involved very often the accident could have been prevented. In 1944 farm accidents in Alberta caused 288 fatalities, 28,289 injuries and economic loss excluding fire, of $18,375,000. This constitutes an unnecessary waste of human life as well as time and material. For the purpose of reducing this loss in Alberta an educational campaign is being conducted, and it is to further emphasize the necessity of preventing accidents on farms that Farm Safety Week has been named.

All persons and organizations concerned with agriculture and farm life are requesfed to do everything in their power to eliminate farm hazards and to stimulate a province-wide determination to stop needless waste of farm man-power and property.

DEFEND JUVENILES

We commend to every reader as well worth his time in reading the story on page seven of this week's Standard dealing with the oft shouted "youth problem."

Many times in the past we ourselves have hit out editorially at these youths No doubt we shall do so again.

This statement, however, coming from one of them, is worthy of considerable thought. More than that, it is worthy of study and action.

Juveniles have been taking the blame for a long time. Should adults be taking it instead?

FARM ACCIDENT TOLL

A recent report indicates that the Mayo Clinic doctors told the American Medical Association recently that one-quarter of all persons killed in occupational accidents in 1944 were farmers. Death and injury in agriculture, they said, is appalling.

The tractor, it is pointed out, is more dangerous than the automobile; farm machinery is more dangerous than industrial machinery. A tractor at Edgerton recently caused the death of still another farmer . . . . it hit a large rock and threw him to the ground, allowing the blades of the tiller to pass over his body.

Falls are the more frequent type of accident on farms and mostly farm machinery. Five out of every hundred falls are fatal.

In view of this extremely high accident rate, and the hazardous occupation they engage in, it behoves every farmer to cut down on the accident chances in every way possible. Machinery moving or in operation is dangerous machinery. It should, if at all possible, be shut off, before adjustments or alterations are attempted. Moving tractors are dangerous things to jump on or off. So are combines, tillers, seeders, mowers, discs, and what have you.

The accident rate is high enough, without farmers going out of their way to increase their chances of tragedy.

RAINFALL REPORT

Rainfall for the two weeks period was somewhat above normal in the Strathmore vicinity, while in the Gleichen area it had fallen to only more than half of normal. Actual rainfall in Strathmore area amounted to 1.46 inches, while in Gleichen it amounted to only .67 inches, data not complete. Total rainfall for the season in Strathmore has been 4.46 inches compared with a normal amount at this time of 6.34 inches, while in Gleichen there has been 3.66 inches, as against a normal fall of 5.60.

RUSTED SCREWS

A screw or nail which has become rusted in wood can be loosened by applying a little hot paraffin to it. Let the paraffin soak in for a short time and see how easily the screw or nail will yield.

Sunday afternoon was the second annual gathering of neighbors at George McBean's to help him brand and vaccinate his calves. The feature attractions of the afternoon were steer riders Bob Brown and Brad Tustian.. Amid gales of laughter they succeeded in mastering their steeds but not before they had suffered many bruises and rope burns. Later a picnic lunch was enjoyed by all.

All Stobart young people spent Sunday afternoon at the river.

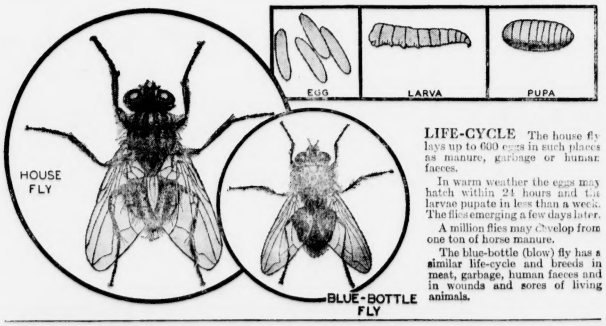
Rohl Newell's nephew Jack, from Hanna is spending some time on the farm with Rohl.



LIFE-CYCLE The house fly lays up to 600 eggs in such places as manure, garbage or human faeces.

In warm weather the eggs may hatch within 24 hours and the larvae pupate in less than a week. The flies emerging a few days later.

A million flies may develop from one ton of horse manure.

The blue-bottle (blow) fly has a similar life-cycle and breeds in meat, garbage, human faeces and in wounds and sores of living animals.

HABITS AND DISEASE: The house fly passes directly from filth to human food carrying bacteria and other organisms. It is supreme as a simple carrier of diseases including typhoid, dysentry, diarrhoea, tuberculosis, etc. Blow fly larvae in wounds cause myiasis.

CONTROL: Clean up possible breeding places such as garbage dumps and manure piles. Manure should be kept in fly-proof receptacles and removed twice weekly. Spread manure thinly in fields to dry or place in compact piles with clean-cut edges to produce heat by fermentation. Spray top layer with one pound of borax to six gallons of water. Keep garbage in fly-proof receptacles and destroy by burning. Prevent flies from having access to human faeces. Screen foodstuffs and use sprays, aerosols, poisoned baits, etc. Dispose of carcasses and offal by burial or incineration.

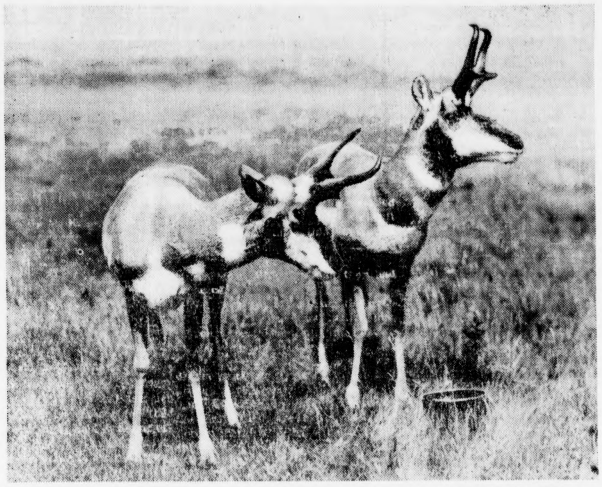
Pronghorned Antelope in National Parks



These beautiful little animals lived on the great open plains in the semi-arid belt of the West which extends over the southerly parts of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta and all through the United States into Mexico.

Today there are very few antelope left in Canada, but there is a small band of about 300 maintained by the National Parks Branch, at Nemiskam Park in southern Alberta

Biologically, the antelope is something of a freak, possessing in itself certain physical characteristics which are not found combined in any other animal. Its most unique peculiarity is that it has true horns, like a cow or goat, with a bony core covered by a hollow horn, which it sheds annually like a deer.

Another curious feature of its anatomy is a patch of white hair on each buttock which it is capable of expanding like a white fan as a signal of alarm and warning.

Antelope can run faster than any other animal except a race horse, in the opinion of Thompson Seton, who makes an interesting comparison of speed animals; he credits the horse with a speed of 34 miles per hour, antelope 32 miles, greyhound 30 miles and Jack-rabbit 28 miles.

A full grown antelope buck will weigh from 100 to 125 pounds, while the does are smaller.

Lauds Clothing Collection

A letter received this week from the National Clothing Collection headquarters praises the work done locally with regard to the amount of clothing turned in. The letter, as it was received, is printed below.

Mr. G. B. Anderson,
Local Chairman,
National Clothing Collection,
Strathmore, Alberta.

Dear Mr. Anderson;

May I take this opportunity of expressing my sincere appreciation and thanks for the splendid job you have performed as Chairman for your community in the second National Clothing Drive which terminated June 29th 1946.

The success of any Drive, such as the National Clothing Drive, depends mainly on public spirited people like yourself who appreciate the problems of those less fortunate, particularly when those problems concern women and children who suffer through no fault of their own.

Our Drive across Canada has proved a success both in poundage and good will, and I would once again thank you, and your many workers, most sincerely.

Yours very truly,
Redverse F. Pratt.
Executive Director.

AGRICULTURAL SERVICE BOARD NOTES

(Cont'd from last week)

Continuing from last week, we are giving you an outline of how Contagious Abortion is spread, and other essential facts from the Veterinarian standpoint. This outline should prove very interesting and enlightening, and it is proposed to have this series continue so that complete understanding may be entertained by every rate-payer in our Municipality.

(1) Spread by germs.

(a) Received by other calves or cows from feed and water.

(b) Individual contact with infected animals.

(2) Infected cows, discharge after calving.

This arises from the fact the germ destroys the calf interuterously by lodging in the placentas. This would seem to be the central point of infection and retains the germ for a long period of time. An infected cow will destroy the male sperms if bred during a period of 8 months, after losing her calf by abortion.

Furthermore, the diseased placentas cause retention of the afterbirth thus harboring and multiplying the germs much more numerously and causing copious discharges. These discharges may fall on the pastures and other feeding grounds thus making it possible for other animals to become infected.

A cow that has become infected will carry the calf from 4 to 6 months. She will also abort once and she may calf 1 year later and bring forth a normal calf, however, she will again discharge thus she is a constant carrier of the germs.

(3) Males hardly ever become infected and if they do the testicles become very badly swollen and discharges emanate from the sheath. It has been noted that infection in herds produces reduction in milk flow by 18%. A secondary point of infection is the udder, the germs lodging in the aleovoli which permit the germs to pass into the milk and if drunk by humans without being pasteurized, the recipient is apt to become infected with what is known as Undulant Fever, which may make the individual sick from 3 to 5 years.

(4) There is no cure for Baug's Disease. Some of the live germs have been isolated and have been incorporated into serum or vaccine. All animals can be tested by the Agglutination Test or Blood Test. These tests will show either negative or positive. If a farmer finds that many of his cows show positive he should endeavor to clear up his herd by having all heifer calves that he wishes to retain for breeding stock, vaccinated with the living bacillus. As these calves mature they develop an immunity in 18 months. All calves should be vaccinated between 4 to 8 months. This will give them an opportunity to develop the required immunity and when bred will produce normal calves and dams will not be carriers of the disease. However, bear in mind that the calves of these cows must in turn be vaccinated if we wish to retain them so that they will not become infected at a later date. As these calves grow to maturity and freshen, the older cows, which are carriers, can be marketed for slaughtering purposes. It is estimated that if a vigorous campaign is maintained for upwards of 14 years all cattle in this Province will have the required immunity and the disease will be stamped out. It will be noted that when calf vaccination is employed, the calves develop their immunity before the first eastrum period occurs.

(5) Prevention; Isolate all cows that abort. It is not necessary that Bang's Disease has caused this abortion, but the cow may have slipped or have been prodded by one of the other animals, therefore, as a safety measure, all bedding and the afterbirth should be burned. If the calf is dead at birth it should be burned. The premises should be sterilized with a 3% creolin solution. A good plan to follow is to mix the 3% creolin solution with the lime and white wash the walls. A point to remember is that sometimes up to 3% of the heifer calves vaccinated will not become immune, however this is a much smaller loss than would have occurred if none of the animals had been vaccinated. The Department of Agriculture, Health of Animals Branch, will vaccinate calves listed on an application form, twice a year, November and May. The November vaccination will immunize all calves born during the period of the year between May and November. Those that are not 4 months of age together with those born after November are to be vaccinated in May. The vaccines are supplied free by the Provincial Health of Animals Branch, and they must be administered by certified and approved Veterinarians. The dates for vaccination for the respective communities must be set by the breeders of the community. Incidentally, the price for vaccination for the various numbers of calves has been set by the Cattle Breeders Association of the Province of Alberta. This rate is in addition to the mileage charged by the Veterinarian, which has been established as 8c a mile.

After supper a very prettily decorated table was covered with lovly gifts and Mr. Fred Hilton with the proper remarks made the presentation. He then called on Mr. Wm. McMillan, who then on behalf of Rockyford and Tudor friends presented the gifts of those communities. Milly and Wallace each expressed their thanks and the crowd sang For They are Jolly Good Fellows with the usual cheer. "JUVENILE DELINQUENCY FRUIT OF WRONG" STUDENT WRITES

(Red Shield Report)

Someone on the "Duffy's Tavern" program once said that juvenile delinquency is when the kids begin to act like their fathers and mothers

The following letter from a high school student was published in the Montgomery, Ala., "Advertiser";

Editor; The Advertiser.—If this is a democracy, we young people also have a right to express our opinions. The papers have been shockingly full recently of reports on the delinquency and vandalism emanating from the youth of this and other communities—all from the pens of critical adults. You have had the young people on the defensive long enough. As a Lanier student, I wish to present our side.

You call it "juvenile" delinquency and ask, "What can be done about it?" To eliminate an effect, one must hit at the cause. I assert that "juvenile" delinquency is the result of adult delinquency. Why don't some reporters follow a few adults around Saturday night and see what they do and where they go, and find out what causes juvenile delinquency? We young people would rather see a sermon than hear one. Do you think mothers who call themselves "Christians" and stand in the whisky line are a good influence? No! neither are the police officers who so do. Christian youth today is fighting against overwhelming odds.

Lanier, itself, has not gone to the dogs. Last year 250 students petitioned for a course in Bible, without success. This year we organized a prayer meeting which meets each morning before school. There was also organized last year a group called the Lanier Christian Organization, which has done some splendid work You have no right to lay the blame for everything upon us young people. We believe that what our parents do is O. K. We merely follow the examples of our teachers and preachers in forming our character. Yes, you see the evil fruitage of wrong-sowing.

Give us leaders whom we may safely follow. Give us mothers who are pure in word, thought and deed. God, give us mothers who will train their children instead of fox terriers. God, give us mothers, and the world will take care of itself.—Wilbur Crosly Hall.

About ninety relatives and friends attended the reception which was held in the "Sky Room". Export Bacon that Pays Best

Too many hogs are overfat on loin and ham. The cross-section of these two Wiltshire sides shows why British consumers prefer bacon from Grade A carcasses (right) instead of from Grade B (left). Grade A hogs yield more lean meat per pound.
